

I bet a lot
of people
now would say, "Who'd
want to live
forever?"

Quality of life seems more important than length. Maybe
people have
goals, plans,
deadlines?

Maybe it's that people
haven't done
anything of note and want
more time in case they might.

I bet a lot
of people
now would
say, "Who'd
forever?"
